Overview

This project bowled a strike with jurors—appropriate, considering the home's earlier life as a bowling alley. Adding two levels to the one original created a dramatic home whose materials nod to the house's origins but contemporize it as well. Maple and pine alley flooring salvaged from the house becomes, on the first floor, a ceiling spine that reaches into two exterior courtyards, and on the second floor it is flooring for an arrow-straight hallway reminiscent of a bowling alley.
